Picture Book, Education
Reading
Edwina Beenas Polka Dot Day will stimulate a sense of wonder and the imagination of your child. Explore with Edwina Beena her delightful polka dot world. Combine the wonders of modern technology with one of the most effective ways to educate our children reading the written page. Activities for Fun and Learning
After reading the book have your kids find and describe the many different colors of polka dots found by Edwina Beena. Have them pick their favorite colors. Cut out circles, add feet and hands and have your kids draw in the face to create their own polka dot characters. Then have them make up a story about their polka dot character. Make polka dot hats or put polka dots on clothes or poster boards and then have a polka dot parade. Making a polka dot collage can be fun too. Visit the author at: www.janielancaster.com
